MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR AND VICE CHAIR

In the midst of a difficult year with losses and financial concerns across the countryside, it is gratifying to know that crop insurance has delivered to farmers. We have helped farmers and ranchers manage a challenging year by processing claims and getting payments out the door quickly. It underscores why private sector delivery is such an integral part of the program and it demonstrates that crop insurance works.

Additionally, we are proud of AACI's efforts in launching the bipartisan Congressional Crop Insurance Caucus. We must always stay in front of Members of Congress and their staff, and this caucus will serve as a meaningful resource in communicating the importance of the program and growing champions in support of it.

We can reasonably expect this coming year to be dominated by politics. To that end, it is vital that we continue outreach and advocacy efforts that are comprehensive and bipartisan to ensure there is a solid level of support for production agriculture.

We look forward to working with you in 2020.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

AACI continued to make positive strides in expanding the scope and purpose of its mission and services this past year. Importantly, we worked to build lasting relationships on Capitol Hill, within the Administration, and among like-minded counterparts in-and-around the agriculture and conservation industries.

By the end of the first quarter, AACI staff had met with over half of the new House offices and all nine of the new Senate offices. By the third quarter, every new office had been visited or contacted at least once. AACI is now a top resource on matters relating to crop insurance or agriculture.

We were proud to help launch the new Congressional Crop Insurance Caucus with more than two dozen bipartisan members representing 15 different states. We were also proud to have AACI Chairman Mike Davenport testify before a House Agriculture Subcommittee on the impact of several natural disasters and how farm programs and crop insurance did or did not work as intended for producers.

Together, these efforts increased our visibility and helped enhance our effectiveness in Washington, D.C.

Looking ahead to 2020, AACI will:

- Continue to grow the PAC to support pro-crop insurance candidates especially during this election year;
- Launch our new leadership program, "Seeding the Future" to grow the next generation of crop insurance leaders;
- Work with our Congressional Crop Insurance Caucus co-chairs to develop quarterly educational briefings for Members of Congress and their staff;
- And, launch our new "Member of Congress Connect" program to help foster relationships inside and outside of Washington.

I look forward to working with you throughout another productive year.

AACI Chairman Michael Davenport testifies at the House Ag Subcommittee hearing.

“The bottom line is that the crop insurance program is successfully meeting the needs of thousands of farmers who can tailor their risk management needs to serve them best with the help of a local agent. This protection represents a good value for America’s taxpayers when compared to other alternatives for addressing shortfalls in agriculture production.”

AACI Chairman

Mission

AACI's mission is to advocate on behalf of all segments of the private sector crop insurance industry with a unified voice in an effort to promote and protect a viable, affordable, and diverse crop insurance program.

Values

To fulfill this mission, AACI holds the following core values as the foundational principles of the organization.

- 1 We support American farmers and ranchers in their pursuit to provide our nation and the world with an affordable, abundant, and secure food, fiber, and feed supply.
- 2 We support expanding the crop insurance program so that farmers, ranchers, and growers all across the country have access to this essential risk management tool regardless of their farm size, background, location, or method of production.
- 3 We support partnering with industry leaders to foster vibrant rural communities.
- 4 We support promoting the stewardship of our nation's natural resources.
- 5 We support protecting the integrity of the crop insurance program by continually working to identify and correct inefficiencies and abuses of current policies.

Goals

AACI has identified the following strategic goals to align both its organizational mission and values.

- 1 Maintain and advance strong policies that support the effective and efficient private sector delivery of the federal crop insurance program.
- 2 Continue to expand coverage of crop insurance to reach a diverse range of farmers, ranchers, and growers across the country.
- 3 Increase awareness of the value and cost-effectiveness of crop insurance and work to ensure adequate resources are available to maintain the viability of the program.
- 4 Foster strong, purposeful relationships within the legislative and executive branches of government in a proactive manner by promoting the critical role that crop insurance plays in contributing to a safe, abundant, and affordable domestic food and fiber supply.
- 5 Build upon existing relationships within the agricultural, conservation, and wildlife communities and identify opportunities to expand support for the federal crop insurance program.

Annual Convention

February 17-20, 2019 | San Diego, CA

At the annual NCIS-AACI convention, we highlighted successes of the previous year, such as passage of the 2018 farm bill with a strong crop insurance title.

Rep. Hudson receives award from Ron Miiller.

Rep. Dan Kildee (D-MI) and Rep. Richard Hudson (R-NC) were presented with AACI's Champion of Crop Insurance Award. In video remarks, Hudson stated he looked "forward to continuing our partnership to support American agriculture." Kildee, who was able to attend the convention, thanked the industry in his address for "what you do" and warned of the challenges ahead stating, "as we go through the appropriations process, some members will take a run at crop insurance."

AACI also released a short video during the convention that described the importance of maintaining a strong presence and meaningful political engagement in Washington to protect the program from attacks.

Fast Facts

-  334+ million acres protected
More than 334 million acres of farmland were protected by crop insurance in 2018 – a historical high.
-  1.1+ million policies sold
More than 1.1 million crop insurance policies were sold to farmers across the nation.
-  $2 billion under projections
Crop insurance came in $2 billion under original federal budget projections for the year.

Annual Fly-Ins

Spring | May 21-23, 2019 | Washington, D.C.

AACI hosted 30 association members during its annual spring fly-in to Washington, D.C. The group met with nearly 50 legislators focusing efforts on bipartisan education and advocacy for freshmen members and visited representatives of districts where AACI has a strong footprint. Other notable meetings included a discussion with RMA Administrator Martin Barbre and his staff. Contact details were shared with RMA staff and since they have been working with individual members of AACI to resolve some of the issues discussed.

Additionally, while in D.C., AACI held two PAC fundraising events in which AACI members had a chance to meet with Congressman Dan Crenshaw (R-TX) and Congressman Will Hurd (R-TX).

Offices were selected to give attendees the opportunity to increase awareness of the AACI, highlight the importance of maintaining the current crop insurance program, and explain the benefits of crop insurance and how it works. AACI members hope to be a resource for crop insurance information for new and returning members of Congress and their staff well into the future.

Fall | October 15-17, 2019 | Washington, D.C.

AACI hosted about 20 members in Washington, DC for the fall fly-in. While in town the attendees met with more than 50 Members of Congress and their staff, administration officials, and commodity group representatives. The AACI members participated in a roundtable discussion with representatives from the corn, cotton, peanut, sugarbeet, and conservation industries where they received an update on the current state of each industry and heard about some of the biggest challenges that growers have had to overcome in recent years.

Later the group met with the two co-chairs of the Congressional Crop Insurance Caucus, Reps. Glenn "GT" Thompson (R-PA) and Cheri Bustos (D-IL), to thank them for their efforts in educating their colleagues about crop insurance.

Additionally, participants spent a day making visits to more than 50 different House offices, meeting with Republicans and Democrats from 25 different states, all of which have some stake in production agriculture. Through these meetings, we were able to grow the membership of the crop insurance caucus, expand AACI's footprint on Capitol Hill, and build support for the crop insurance program.

Bipartisan Crop Insurance Caucus Launched to Educate Congress

In July, Rep. Cheri Bustos (D-IL-17) and Rep. Glenn “GT” Thompson (R-PA-15) launched the Congressional Crop Insurance Caucus to help Members of Congress and their staff better understand the program and build bipartisan support for this critical risk management tool for farmers and ranchers. To date, there are 38 members of the caucus.

“This year our agency witnessed firsthand the level of uncertainty and devastation that can come with extreme weather. Farmers are the backbone of our community and a strong crop insurance program allows them the certainty and security they need to recover and maintain their operations. We applaud Rep. Bustos and Rep. Thompson for their efforts to educate Congress on the importance of crop insurance and the critical role it plays in communities like ours here in Illinois.”

AACI Recognizes Its Champion Defenders on Capitol Hill

LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

Rep. K. Michael Conaway (R-TX-11)

Few in the crop insurance industry will forget when a behind-closed-doors budget deal was negotiated and dropped in the middle of the night in 2015. It proposed devastating cuts to crop insurance that would have singlehandedly destroyed the private sector delivery system had they been implemented. They were not, thanks to Chairman Emeritus Mike Conaway who stepped in and blocked action on that budget until a commitment was received to undo the proposed cuts in a subsequent bill.

A couple of years later, in the midst of one of the worst farm economies in decades, Chairman Emeritus Conaway succeeded in passing a farm bill making it the first time since 1990 that Congress passed a farm bill the same year it was introduced. In the House, the final conference report earned a 369-47 vote – one of the largest votes of support in the history of farm bill votes.

For these reasons, we honor Chairman Emeritus Conaway with the AACI Lifetime Achievement Award for his service on behalf of America's farmers and ranchers and his unwavering support of crop insurance.

2019 CHAMPIONS OF CROP INSURANCE

Rep. Cheri Bustos (D-IL-17)

Rep. Glenn "GT" Thompson (R-PA-15)

For their bipartisan partnership and leadership in launching the Congressional Crop Insurance Caucus in 2019, we honor Reps. Cheri Bustos and GT Thompson with our hallmark Champions of Crop Insurance Award.
